An enthusiastic crowd of approximately 175 sports fans raised a total of $81,500 during the 2017 PossAbilities Sports Luncheon, which was held Wednesday, Nov. 1, on the campus of Loma Linda University Health.

Pedro Payne, PhD, director of community outreach and patient experience, said the funds will purchase a racing handcycle for athlete Christopher Sproule as well as team uniforms, race fees, travel expenses, coaching and equipment to enable seven Paralympic hopefuls from the PossAbilities program to attend the national championships.

Keynote speaker Josh Sundquist took the stage on crutches to share highlights of his journey from the childhood cancer that led to the amputation of his left leg to representing the United States in the 2006 Winter Paralympics in Torino, Italy.

Sundquist finds that many figures of speech are literally true for amputees. “If I say I’m going to hop in the shower, I mean that literally. I think about that every time I shower,” he said, hopping around to prove his point.

Watching the U.S. athletes march in to the 2002 Winter Paralympic Games in Salt Lake City turned into a pivotal experience for Sundquist. “I saw that team march in and I said, ‘Ah, that is going to be me in four years in Torino, Italy’,” he said.

His first qualifying event was a disaster. The 16-year-old skier fell five times. Undaunted, he vowed to improve. “I had this motto, 1 MT1MT, and I put it up all over my skis to remind me, whenever I looked down, to do one more thing one more time. And when I fell, I remembered, ‘Just do one more thing one more time,’” Sundquist said.

“I did that for years and in March of 2006, I had the amazing honor to walk into the Olympic Stadium in Torino, Italy, in front of 30,000 people — including my mom and dad — for the opening ceremonies of the Paralympics. I’ll tell you that walking into that stadium was the most beautiful walk of my life,” Sundquist said.

8th Annual Christmas Party is a Hit

In partnership with Loma Linda Children’s Hospital Spina Bifida team, PossAbilities hosted its 8th Annual Children’s Christmas Party at East Campus Park. Nearly 400 patients, members of PossAbilities and family members enjoyed a day of fantasia. From face painting to horse drawn carriage rides, miniature horses, and a 3-legged dog named Pippee, fun was to be had by all.

We had snow! 12 tons to be exact that covered the landscape to provide a winter wonderland play area for the families. Children of all ages enjoyed building snowmen and tossing snow balls. When they weren’t buried in the snow, they were getting their faces painted to look like Rudolph and Elsa after choosing a gift from Santa. Pizza was on the menu and we had yummy chocolate chip cookies for dessert.

Many thanks to our community partners that allow us to provide this experience for our patients, PossAbilities members and their families:

Emmanuel Kelly highlights 14th annual Celebration Dinner for PossAbilities program

Event showcases lives, contributions of individuals turning disabilities into PossAbilities

By James Ponder

When Emmanuel Kelly took the stage at the 14th annual Celebration Dinner for Loma Linda University Health’s PossAbilities program on Dec. 3, it wasn’t just the strength of his vocal performances that endeared him to the audience. Instead, his message resonated with the nearly 1,000 attendees because, like him, many of them cope with disabilities on a daily basis.

Known around the world as a YouTuber singing sensation, Kelly transcended numerous obstacles on the road to becoming the world’s first disabled pop superstar. The audience seemed especially enthralled as he revealed the philosophy that fueled his rise.

“Anything is possible,” Kelly said. “I was told, five years ago, that I would never walk again because my scoliosis was the worst they had ever seen, and I’m dancing and walking.”

As Kelly personifies individuals who rise above disability, the PossAbilities program embodies the confident spirit of conquering obstacles and achieving dreams.

In enumerating key accomplishments of Team PossAbilities in 2017, Pedro Payne, PhD, program director, recounted 48 support group meetings for people with disabilities, 16 swim classes, a women’s luncheon, the Redlands Bicycle Classic, the annual PossAbilities Triathlon and three high school proms. PossAbilities sponsors for high school students with special needs.

Payne introduced the seven Paralympic hopefuls PossAbilities is sponsoring in their quest to compete in the Tokyo Paralympic Games in 2020: Greg Crouse, canoeing, Andre Barbieri, triathlon, Delmon Dunston, paracycling, Zimri Solis, triathlon, Ryen Reed, paracycling, Jenna Rollman, paracycling, and Chris Sproule, paracycling. Payne added that the event was also an opportunity to celebrate the accomplishments of PossAbilities members who are not competitive athletes.

Taekwondo master John Kim was named San Manuel Support Member of the Year. Kim was honored for driving to Loma Linda from his Los Angeles home every Monday for the last five years to lead a stretching and exercise class for people with disabilities. Shirley Arrington, widow of the late PossAbilities stalwart Eric Arrington, said Kim is a pillar of the Los Angeles community where he runs a center that provides adaptive sports opportunities for challenged athletes.

Jonathan Jean-Marie, MHA, vice president and administrator of Loma Linda University Medical Center East Campus and Surgical Hospital, joined Payne in officially thanking Quest Diagnostics — the world's leading provider of diagnostic testing, information and services for patients and physicians — for sponsoring PossAbilities' activities the last three years with a generous gift of $1 million. They said Quest Diagnostics sponsored programs to help disabled individuals find new direction and hope through physical, social and educational interaction.

In introducing Joshua Dotson as Member of the Year, Cotie Williams, program manager, and Emmanuel Kelly pointed out that in 2017 alone, Dotson attended more than 10 PossAbilities events, volunteered more than 300 hours and visited the PossAbilities office more than 30 times. “He and his mom drove down from Barstow each week to make sure the brochure holders are full with information about PossAbilities for our patients across the entire East Campus,” Kelly said. “He has dedicated his life to getting the word out about PossAbilities.”

The presentation that involved by far the most people was the lineup of the 2017 grant and scholarship recipients. As their names were called, recipients made their way to the stage until there was barely room for one more.

Para-triathlete Zimri Solis inducted Eric Aguilar into the PossAbilities Hall of Heroes and unveiled a large, framed poster recounting Aguilar’s achievements. The poster will grace the halls of the East Campus rehabilitation facility. Solis said Aguilar was chosen for thriving through disability, giving back to his community and leading by example. Aguilar was born prematurely and diagnosed with cerebral palsy and two types of seizures. Doctors said he would never walk or talk nor survive beyond the age of 6.

Today, the 29-year-old Aguilar not only walks and talks, but also volunteers for several organizations including PossAbilities, where he mentors other people with cerebral palsy.

As Aguilar took the podium to accept the award, he offered a positive message: “Dreams do come true for Eric Aguilar!”
Christmas this year was not just about celebrating the birth of Jesus, but about blessing others to bring glory to our Lord and Savior. In the spirit of giving, the PossAbilities Rolling Bears men’s wheelchair basketball team and PossAbilities Shield Maidens women’s wheelchair basketball team with the help of CASC Engineering and WSP were able to adopt 5 families with more than 30 family members. These families were blessed by the generosity of challenged athletes, employees and their families in our local community. Let us never forget the true Reason for the Season.
I had barely turned 14 when I was shot in a drive by shooting. I was not in a gang. I just lived in an area that was very rough housing projects in East LA. It was a common occurrence in that area. My father was a hard working man but uneducated, so he never made much money (he is now retired and owns his own home with my mother in Apple Valley). After I got shot I had a hard time adjusting and learning how to live again. No organizations that provide peer support were around that I knew of after my spinal cord injury in 1991. I adapted myself to my new life as a spinal cord injury survivor and learned how to take care of myself. In my early 20s, I worked and went to school at the same time. I earned a Bachelor of Science degree in Information Systems Security, in spite of many various secondary spinal cord injury-related issues that had me going back to the hospital over the years. I have had five surgeries over the past 26 years of my spinal cord injury. I succeeded and graduated with honors. All while working at the same time. My parents or no one else but me paid for my education. I always tell everyone I did it on my own and learned everything the hard way. I had an awesome career for 15 years in the Information Systems Security IT field that paid me very well, and I earned every cent. I had work-weeks that where sometimes six or seven days long. That is how I was able to buy myself my nice car and my own home. I got really sick in 2012 and had to stop working and prepare for another surgery. I had H.O. (heterotopic ossification) regrow in my left hip and some of it broke and created an infection deep inside the bone. I forced myself to keep working like that until I just could not do it anymore. I had the surgery in the beginning of 2015 and healed from it thanks to God. I had to work really hard to regain my strength and independence once again. Each time I had surgery, it was the same. I decided that I would not return to work and rather serve a higher purpose by helping others when I can and enjoying my life at the same time no longer focused on just making money. I vowed to myself that I would not die working and use my experience to help others in my situation and similar disability. As of early 2016 I have a new passion; handcycling. I am very good at it and plan to pursue going to the Paralympics. I can literally write a book but that is a very short and condensed bio so you can understand a little more who I am. For the past several years, I have volunteered with Triumph Foundation and Desert Ability Center, and have done peer visits at Ballard Rehabilitation in San Bernardino and Rancho Los Amigos. I have met many other spinal cord injury survivors over the years and always try to offer advice and share my life experience. I am also very close to completing the process to be an official Loma Linda volunteer and look forward to helping.

Last year was an awesome year! In 2017 we finalized our sponsorship with Quest Diagnostics. We wish to thank Quest for such tremendous support over the last three years! In 2017 we had the opportunity to sponsor seven Paralympic athletes and raised over $80,000 for our Paralympic Training Program. Our membership grew to more than 6,500 members and support members. We received recognition for excellence from local and state government officials for our program. Yes, 2017 was a great year for PossAbilities but 2018 promises to be even greater! This year Loma Linda University Health is our Title Sponsor. As we move into spring, our program keeps growing, and God keeps blessing us! Thank you Heavenly Father, for all the wonderful things you have done and for the things we have yet to see!
